Comment: The Darul Islam is the largest, best-organized insurgent group in Indonesia. It has long been attempting to establish, by force of arms, a theocratic state in West Java, and more recently has sought to extend its influence throughout the entire island.

8. Severe crisis afflicts Trieste pro-Cominform party:

A crisis has reportedly developed in the ranks of the pro-Cominform party in Trieste as a result of the mildly pro-Italian stand taken by party leaders during the recent demonstrations.

Party chief Vittorio Vidali's "irredentist" speeches in southern Italy have added to the dissatisfaction, and efforts by party leaders to dissipate it have been unsuccessful.

Comment: The Trieste pro-Cominform party, as opposed to its Italian counterpart, has been supporting the plan for an independent Trieste under four-power control. There are indications, however, that Vidali is preparing the ground for a shift to a policy compatible with that of his "Italian brothers."

Although the small Slovene minority in the party may be vulnerable to a Yugoslav attempt to exploit Vidali's alleged abandonment of the independent cause, the preponderant Italian majority and the old-line Communists will probably give full support to Vidali's leadership.
